

Idea

My idea is to create a story about this school, about the things that happened to me and things that didn't but maybe they happened to another student.

I want to transmit the feelings that people could have when they started the 1st semester, it could be feelings like excitement, depression, love, happiness or sadness.

I will exaggerate some things in order to make it entertaining.